They were certainly favored by events, which deprived the arguments used by the bears for some time of much of their force. Before the opening everybody was looking to London for a cue for operations here and when the cables brought liberal buying orders for foreign account it was at once concluded by a large number of operators that it was to be a bull day. In this they were not disap-binted. There was no excitement in the quarter but prices crept up gradually, and the market had a healthy look. The adand the market had a healthy look. The advance was equal to 1 a 2 per cent, and each reaction brought in buyers, among them Boston and Chicago operators. Easy money, a reduction in rates of foreign exchange to 4.82 and 4.86, and a batch of favorable railway carnings all helped along the movement for higher prices.

SHARP MUST STAY IN JAIL.

Arguments in the Appeal To-Day Postponed Until Oct. 27.

[SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.] ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 19 .- De Lancey Nicoll, Lawyer Stickney and Bourke Cockran were on hand when the Court of Appeals opened in the matter of Sharp's appeal.

Stating that ex-Judge Comstock, who had been secured to present the case for the people, had not had sufficient time to prepare himself sufficiently and familiarize himself with the case, Mr. Nicoll asked for a postponement for the argument.

As the court takes a recess next Friday for three weeks, and it is not probable that a decision could be reached before the adjournment, he felt warranted in asking for the postponement.

Mr. Stickney urged that the appeal be argued at the earliest day possible, for the continued confinement of Mr. Sharp in jail might result in his death. Mr. Sharp is much weaker than a few weeks ago, and delay might render his condition much worse.

Chief-Judge Ruger considered that the case was one that could be justly postponed to a date previous to the recess, as in either event the decision could not be handed down until after the recess expired. He therefore set the case down for argument on Thursday, Oct. 27.

The defense will undoubtedly carry the case to the Supreme Court of the United States in the event of an unfavorable decision of the Court of Appeals. The chief question which will be raised in the Supreme Court will be that of constitutional privilege, the defense contending that the admission of Sharp's incriminating testimony before the Senate committee, on his trial for bribery, was directly in opposition to the provisions of the Constitution of the United States.

Effendi, the Diplomat, Dead.

[SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.]
WARHINGTON, Oct. 19.—Rusten: Effendi, First Secretary of the Turkish Legation, died here this morning. He had been in Washington nearly is years, and was a son of Pasha Jourdan, late Major-General of the Turkish Army, and nephew of Marshal Jourdan, of France, under Napoleon I. He was educated in Paris, and was a fine Arable scholar. He was very popular in Wash-ington diplomatic direies, and also had many friends in New York. He was thirty-seven years old.

Second Day of Registration. John J. O'Brien was at Police Headquarters be fore 9 o'clock this morning, swearing in Inspectors of Election where vacancies occurred, so as to set the second day of registration in motion. The George inspectors did not make any effort to enforce their claims. O'Brien said that their opportunity was on the initial day of registration, and that had they made a fight he would have stood with and protected them. O'Brien says that he is Chief of Hections, and that he will romain so until the closing of the polis.

SHAM BATTLE AT ATLANTA.

President and Mrs. Cleveland are Intereste

INPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD 1

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 19.—The great sham battle, of which President and Mrs. Cleveland, with Gov. Gordon, of Georgia : Gov. Louns bury, of Connecticut; Gov. Richardson, of South Carolina ; Gov. Perry, of Florida, and Gov. Taylor, of Tennessee, are spectators, is about to begin.

All the morning flashy-uniformed officers have been riding across the plain giving or ders and getting their troops in motion. THE EVENING WORLD correspondent has just had a talk with Gen. P. M. B. Young, Commanderin-Chief of the forces, in which he outlined the movements of the day. Said he:

"Every detail of a battle will be shown There will be the Ambulance Corps, under charge of Drs. Westmoreland and Pickney, and the Hospital Corps. The Engineering Corps, under charge of Col. Frobel, will construct a bridge across the stream under fire, and the cavalry and artillery will cross for the final charge. The troops will be in regiments and brigades. I have made up six regiments of infantry, six battalions of artillery and seven companies of cavalry. Col. Mercer commands the First Georgia, Major Young commands the First Florida, Major Lancaster commands the Second Florida, and Col. Garrard commands the Second Guards Battalion. Other regiments have been made of various companies and distinguished men are in command of them. The brigades will be commanded by the very best military men of the South. All the movements on the battle-field will be made with such precision and swiftness as to thrill struct a bridge across the stream under fire. such precision and swiftness as to thrill every soldier and interest every spectator.

"A special feature will be the regiment of Raccoon Roughs which will take part in the battle which Mr. Clarke Howell is now arranging and which Coi. Renfrew will command."

battle which Mr. Clarke Howell is now arranging and which Coi. Renfrew will command."

Before the battle opened the scene was a peaceful one. To the right of the grand stand and the terraces on which the spectators are massed there are three companies of cavalry, two batteries of artillery and the right of a long line of infantry.

Gen. Young gave in military detail the movements thus: The hills north of the track on which stands the club house are occupied by a strong force of infantry, cavalry and artillery. It is supposed to be the resting point of the extreme right flank of a large army extending along Peach Tree Creek. The picket posts of this force are well out to the front, partially occupying the ridges south of the track, or so much of them as lie inside the inclosure. The extreme right of this line of outposts will rest about the bridge which spans the small brook that runs south of the track. The force occupying the Club-House Hill will he designated the "Army of the East" and its opponent the will advance from the forests or hill beyond and far south of the inclosure, extending its lines from left to right, reaching almost to. Peach Tree Creek. It will be preceeded by a strong line of cavalry, skirmishers taking possession of the heights, which will be immediately occupied by a strong column of cavalry on its left wing massed in rear of left wing.

"The Army of the West," will open the endance of the country of the track of the massed in rear of left wing.

"The Army of the West," will open the engagement by a flank movement on the right wing of the "Army of the East" attempting to capture Club-House Hill. While this attack is progressing a heavy column of infantry and artillery will be sent out from the "Army of the East," and it will move down the ravine, coming out in rear of the main building, forming line in front of this building, marching due west, attacking in flank the advancing forces of the "Army of the West," which, surprised on its flank and subject to a heavy fire, is compelled to retire to the heights south of the inclosure, which have been temporarily fortified. While retiring, this force is charged by cavalry and infantry. The artillery of both armies is constantly firing during these movements. The final charge will be made by the Army of the East over the entire inclosure advancing the whole line of infantry, cavalry and artillery up the hills.

Mrs. Cleveland is taking the greatest possible interest in the marching and countermarching of the men. The scene is one of intense excitement. This morning President and Mrs. Cleveland were entertained at breakfast at the Edgewood home of Senator Colquitt. A distinguished company was present.

RACING AT PIMLICO.

Second Day of the Maryland Club's Autumn Meeting.

A Cool and Pleasant Day, a Fast Track and Fairly Good Attendance.

Four Out of Five Races Won by Favorites First by Eolian, Second by Los Angeles, Third by Swift, and Fourth by Diadem-Whently Only Beaten a Head for the Steeplechase by Littlefellow II.

[SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.] Judges-Oden Bowie, T. W. Doswell, S. D. Bruce, N. M. Conner, Timers-B. A. Haggin and W. H. McCorkle, Secretary-C. Wheally, Starter-J. F. Caldwell,

PIMLICO RACE TRACK, Oct. 19 .- This is the econd day of the Maryland Jockey Club's autumn meeting. The weather is cool and pleasant, and consequently there is a fairly good attendance for an "off day," especially as to-morrow is one of the big days of the meeting. The track to-day is in fine condition, as shown by Eolian running the first race-a dash of a mile-in 1.43%, which the two-year-old Los Angeles supplemented by winning the second race—the Central Stakes -in 1.45%, time that has only been beaten three times since Harry Bassett won the first Central in 1870, viz., by Finework, 1.45, in 1874: by Crickmore, 1.44%, in 1880, and by Sensation last year in 1.44%. Both Eolian and Los Angeles started favorites, as did Swift, the winner of the third race, who won somewhat easily after a hard race with Harvard, whom Garrison, on Le Logos, just managed to beat for a place with one of his snapper-like" rushes. The fourth race came near ending the sequence" of winning favorites. It was the Vestal Stakes, for three-year-old fillies, with the Californian Grisette and New York Diadem the only starters. Grisette had the call at first, but just before the start Diadem was well backed, and they went to the post about equal favorites. The Californian "sulked" and the New Yorker won, to the great delight of Davy Johnson, who almost exploded with a shout of "How can they eat us."

The result of the steeplechase did break the "sequence," for Billy Lakeland's Littlefellow II. just got home in front of Mr. Harwood on Wheatly. It was a great disappoint. ment to the Baltimore Hunt element. Mr. Harwood had been so successful away from home that they wanted to see him win at home. But he just missed. As it was, he was loudly cheered. Details as follows:

The Race.—Le Logos jumped away in the lead, with Swift second and King of Norfolk at the post. Harvard almost immediately rushed out, and at the stand he was four lengths in front of Swift, who was three lengths best of The Bourbou. The two leaders ran clear away from the others, with Harvard in the lead until they reached the homestretch, when Swift came away with a rush, winning by a short length. At the betting ring Le Logos came very fast, and just nipped the tired Harvard on the post for the place, Argo fourth, Bessie June 11fth. Mutuels paid $9.70.

[SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.] CLIPTON RACE TRACK, Oct. 19 .- There is an excellent attendance considering the threatening outlook of the weather this morning, and that it continued so when the "Specials" left. The track is fairly good, and as the racing began with something of a surprise the day promised well. But an accident in the third race, in which four horses fell, throwing their riders—J. Barrett, Farley, Davis and Whyburn—to the ground, ended the enjoyment. It was a serious-looking accident, but fortunstely none of the boys are badly hurt. Barrett is stunned somewhat, but no bones are broken. threatening outlook of the weather the bases. First Inning-For the Browns, Latham hit to first and was retired. Gleason got to first on four strikes, the last one passing Ganzel, but was forced by O'Neill's hit to the pitcher. Comiskey's base-hit to White brought O'Neill to second, but Rowe's assist retired Foutz.

For Detroit, Richardson stepped to the plate and struck four times at the ball, which Boyle missed, but recovered in time to throw to first. Ganzel hit to Gleason and died at first base and Rowe struck out. No runs. Second Inning-For the Browns, Welch hit to White, who made a beautiful pick-up and threw the star centre fielder out at first. Robinson struck out and White's assist retired Boyle. No runs. For Detroit, Thompson hit to Comiskey, who threw him out to King, who ran to guard the base. Gleason caught White's high fly and Dunlap struck out. No runs. Third Inning-For the Browns, King struck out. Conway's assist put out Latham and Gleason fouled out to Ganzel. No runs. For Detroit, Bennett hit a high foul, which Boyle covered in first-class style, running Robinson assisted Hanlon out on a slow, disagreeable bounding hit and Conway fouled out on a dead liner into Boyle's hands. No runs. Fourth Inning-For the Browns, O'Neill nade two strikes and then hit to Rowe, who fielded the ball over in olever style, retiring the slugger. Comiskey followed him with a clean hit over Bennett's head. An accidental safe bunt from Foutz's bat brought the captain to second and Comiskey scored on Welch's hit to Rowe. Foutz went to second. Robinson flew out to Richardson, and Conway's assist put out Boyle. One run.

For Detroit, Richardson made a pretty hit clean over the infield to centre for two bases. Ganzel hit to Robinson and was put out a first, advancing Richardson to third, and Richardson came home on Rowe's base hit to left. Thompson forced Rowe at second but Boyle's bad throw brought him to third. White flew out to Foutz. One run.

Fifth Inning-For the Browns, King's high fly fell squarely into Rowe's hands. Latham succumbed to Conway's delivery. White' error proved to be a life for Gleason, but he was doubled by O'Neill, who hit to Dunlap. No runs. For Detroits, Dunlap came to the bat, and after making numerous fouls which should have been called strikes, he failed of his purpose and struck out. Bennett followed his example and Hanlou flew out to Gleason, No runs. Sixth Inning-For the Browns, Comiskey hit to White, who made a splendid stop and threw him out at first base amid applause. Foutz hit a high fly, which fell into Rowe's hands. Welch hit a hot grounder along the third base line, got to second on the throw in and scored on Robinson's fine liner over White's territory for a single. Boyle made a twobagger, but Robinson was caught at third on an attempt to get third on the hit. One run. For Detroit, Conway came to the bat and struck four times at the ball without hitting it. Richardson hit to Gleason, who caught him at first base by quick and accurate work. and Ganzel hit a long, high fly, which Welch covered in his inimitable style. No runs. Seventh Inning-For the Browns, King hit a hot one to Rowe, who fielded well and retired his man at first, White's assist put out Latham at first, Gleason made a clean hit between second and first, and then O'Neill followed with a dropper to Thompson, which the slugger caught like a doughnut. No runs. For Detroit, Rowe made a base hit right past Robinson, who reached desperately for it, but the ball was too wide,

Hotel Albemarie and the Bijon Theatre Badly Damaged - Both Balldings Took Fire-Two of Those Injured Said to Have Since Died - How a Ticker-Seller and Several of His Customers Were Handled,

[SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.] PITTSBURG, Pa., Oct. 19 .- At 10.15 o'clock to-day there was a fearful explosion of gas in the Hotel Albemarle. The building immediately took fire, which speedily communicated with the Bijou Theatre adjoining.

The flames were caused by an explosion of natural gas in a treuch near the Albemarle Hotel (Patterson Block), corner of Pennsylvania avenue and Sixth street. The firemen have extinguished the fire. Twelve persons were injured, two of whom are reported dead at this hour.

The Albemarle Hotel, in the corner storeroom of which the explosion occurred, is one of the finest structures in the city. Next to the storeroom was the grand entrance to the Bijou Theatre, which is situated immediately in the rear of the hotel.

At the time of the explosion C. E. Bruce, assistant treasurer, was in the ticket office. selling tickets. He was blown out of the box. Several people buying tickets were knocked down. Bruce was not badly injured, and the ticket-buyers encaped with few bruises. When the explosion occurred, a man pass.

name was not learned as he was able to walk off. Large plate-glass in a store on the opposite side of Sixth street was shattered to atoms and within twenty yards of the scene, scores of smaller panes were broken or forced out of their frames.

Flames burst out immediately and a general alarm of fire was turned in. The whole storeroom was soon ablaze and smoke was pouring out of all the upper windows of the hotel.
Firemen and citizens ran into the store and brought out the injured, carrying them across the street into a store. Physicians
